and of the Russian Emperors has been the same ; and that is in the employment of men of foreign birth, in high offices, wherever it was believed they could render services useful to the State.

In regard to what the Commodore said of the growing importance of the trade with the Amoor River, we find the following at page 60 of the Report of the Minister of Foreign Relations to the last Legislature :

" In a despatch which, on the S1st of October, 1857, I had the bonor to address to his Excellency, Monsieur Stoecki, the Emperor's Minister at Washington, while enclosing Statistical Tables 1 to 6 inclusive, already referred to, amongst other things, ted: 'Your Excellency will observe from Table No. 1, that had it not been for the late war, now happily terminated, the im-portations from these two Russian ports alone (Kamschatka and man would have exceeded, in value, the whole direct importations from France for 12 years. If the merchants of Russia hadd engage more extensively than they have done i shale fishery along their own Asiatic and American coasts, and supposing the prosperity of the Russian establishments on the Amoor, of which little doubt can be entertained, it is difficult to say how far the interests of Russian shipping and commerce, with this Kingdom, may increase in future years. The King and his Government desire to promote that increase by following a policy the best calculated to conduce to that end; for the last 30 years, they have only had to thank all Russian offieers and merchants for their uniform kindness, affability and courteousness; during the same long period, so far as I know or remember, there has not been one complaint of any infraction of our harbor regulations, by any Russian Vessel, or of any disorder created by any Russian crew; and upon no Sovereign does the King more rely for sympathy and protection than upon the august and magnanimous Emperor of all the Russias."

We have understood from Mr. Wyllie himself, that after taking his diploma and degree at a university in Scotland, his original destination was Russia-counting upon the patronage of the late Sir James Wyllie, of St. Petersburg, Bart., (who was from a branch of his own lowland clan,) and upon the Messrs. Cochranes, opulent Scotch merchants at Riga. Fate conducted him to the Jan. 23. Pacific in place of the Baltic, and finally to this King. dom; but having made known the above circumstances and the advantages of being recognized by Russia to the late King, in 1845, with his authority Mr. Wyllie. as far back as that year, and on several occasions afterwards, wrote to his distinguished kinsman on that subject; and since, on the same, has corresponded with Admirals Bille and Virgin, the Governors of Sitka and Kamschatks, and M. Stoeckl.

In proof that this great object was not abandoned, we are permitted to publish the following extracts from Mr. Wyllie's despatch, No. 42, of 24th Nov., 1849, to his Excellency G. P. Judd, then the King's Plenipotentiary Extraordinary to the Governments of the United States. France and Great Britain :

and France, the treaties, on a similar and identical basis, that med to form, and the King having only one policy towards all nations, you will only carry out that policy by considering your powers sufficient to negotiate and agree upon perfectly similar and identical treaties with the kingdom of Belother maritime and mercantile nations, transmitting the drafts, for ratification, here, by the King.

"And if, in said treaties to be negotiated, there should be any rights or privileges to any foreign rights or privileges to any foreign nation more favorable than those contained in the treaties with Deumark and Hamburgh, it would be desirable to arrange, with the Representatives of those nations, in London, with the view of rendering their several treaties as uniform and consistent with the others as may be

"In regard to Russia, I enclose copy of my dispatch of the 20th April, 1849, and of its enclosure to Captain Steen Anderson Bille, adding duplicate, under flying seal of my letter to him of the 21st instant, which you can forward through the Danish Ambassador in London, after keeping a copy thereof. We are glad, Majesty's treaties with other foreign nations, were 30,000 Drs. animated by a desire of equal favor and justice to all nations, which ought not to have given umbrage | nia trade in the way of imports is becoming every season more either to the Emperor or to H. L. M.'s Representative apparent, and we are pleased to see it is at last visible to our at the King's Court.

To provide for the expenses of the possible visit Petersburgh and other Northern European Courts, Mr. Wyllie had the foresight to provide Mr. Judd with an extra credit of £1,000 on Messrs. Matheson & Co., of London, empowering him to draw on them for more, if necessary.

As no Treaty could be made with France, Mr. Judd was left without an object in visiting those

Our contemporary has stumbled over that curious compound of credulity and garrulity, in the vernacular called a " mare's-nest," and has been " smelling a rat" in the arrival of some South Sea Islanders at Koloa, Kauai. A greater piece of assumption, perversion, untruth and gratuitous slander has seldom defiled the columns of the Advertiser, nor do we remember to have seen so much of it in so small a space.

We published in our last a letter from a gentleman at Koloa, relating the arrival of the schooner Wamp, with some South Sea natives, who had been engaged on the Koloa sugar plantation belonging to Dr. R. W.

The Advertiser apparently twisted that letter to suit its comments. Given, the schooner Wamp, the islanders and the Koloa plantation, to find a case of " kidnapping," a " high-handed system of piracy" and an "opening of the slave trade in the Pacific." And our contemporary has done it. After reading its article there can be no doubt on any mind abroad-and unacquainted with the character of the people whom it is so cruelly traducing-that Capt. St. Clair of the Wamp is a pirate and a slaver, and that the Koloa plantation is an accessory and accomplice both before

After that feat no one will dispute that the Advertiser can see further through a mill-stone than other people. And at the mercy of such a firebrand are the fair name and reputation of industrious strangers and our worthlest citizens! Just fancy a slave market on the Kolon plantation, or, what is full as likely, in the eye of the Advertiser.

The Advertiser feels called upon to refer to our presenting our " Annual Port Statistics a little in advance of the official publication of them," and thinks | Strong fears are entertained of her loss. that "the publication of them in a garbled form, as has been attempted by the Polynesian this year, is not only a discourtesy to the Collector, but a gross imposition on the public at home as well as abroad, which the government ought not to sanction." Sour grapes ! our friend, sour grapes ! Because the Advertiser found it too much trouble to keep its own statistics, currente calamo, and while the year was passicise our attempt to keep the public posted up, from month to month and quarter to quarter, upon the commercial and marine transactions of the port? And because them for the constant of the port is and two servants, Mrs A K Clark, D C Waterman, Capt Canada two servants, Mrs Burns, Capt W de Matrice and non, David Grant, Mr Burns, Capt W de Matrice and servant, II B Orsland, W H Tiffany, Mr Ellis, Chun Sham, Departure.

Capt. Geo. H. Cannon, late of the whaleship Jirch Perry, and who so unfortunately met with the severe accident which caused him to remain here, and his vessel to proceed without him on her homeward bound trip, has so far recovered under the skillful treatment of Dr. Ford as to allow him to take his departure for San Francisco in the "Yankee," whence we hear it is his intention to return again among us. We wish Capt. Cannon every success after the ill luck which has befel him, and trust he may yet look back with pleasure at the mischance which has kept him here so long, painful although it may have been.

Send it Abroad.

This number of the Polynesian contains a larger amount of statistical information relating to these Islands and their commerce and industrial development, than any other contemporary journal, and cannot fail to interest our friends abroad.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 27, 1860.

The departure of the Russian war steamers on Sunday last for Tahiti and Valparaiso, en route for Cronstadt, and the sailing of the Comet on Tuesday for San Francisco, were the two events of the past week which relieved the dullness and monotony of affairs in the business community. The sailing of the steamers on Sunday, a departure from the general custom, created some talk among a certain portion of the community, which we think * * * " Having concluded with the United States, Great Britain | the members would have dispensed with if they had taken into consideration that according to the calendar of the Greek Church H. L. M.'s war vessels sailed on the 10th.

The Comet had a good freight of coals, pulu, &c., and will be llowed to-morrow by the Yankee ; and as considerable interest exists here relative to their respective merits as sailers, the date of their arrival at San Francisco will be eagerly looked for.

The brig Consort sailed on Wednesday for Port Madison, and" had a small list of domestic exports among her cargo. Her inward cargo of lumber still remains in first hands, and yesterday the rivalry of the different holders to make a rate for sellers' views created some amusement on the street, from the pungency of style in which the different proclamations issued by the Capulets and Montagues of Lumberdom were composed. The last rate made was $27 50 W M. for N. W. lumber, which had not been met, up to date of writing, by the opposing parties. By advices received per Yankee, we learn three more cargoes may be looked for, and no immediate stringency in the market need

The official publication of the Custom House Statistics for 1859 Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary; and 2d, that the shows a most gratifying result of the Island trade for the past year. The increase of exports is apparent in nearly every article of importance on the list. That of sugar surpasses the expectation of those most interested. The blight which has so as shown by the Protocols, for a new treaty with has in other countries, and that article of commerce take its however, to notice an increase over last year's export of nearly

As noted by us from time to time, the increase of the Califorworthy contemporary, and if shipments continue to be made from the United States and Europe to that market as have been done for years past, and of which, if published reports are true, of Mr. Judd, with the two young Princes, to St. there appears to be no letting up on at present, and upon which our former hypothesis was based, California must in the nature of things become our supplier.

> We would refer to a more elaborate review, and the tables themselves, in another portion of our sheet. We hear of no large sales in staples. Those known to us and reported are at figures previously given. The ship Amethyst sailed to-day for San Francisco, and will we learn be sold on arrival. Her cargo consists of coal from N. B., sold to arrive in San Francisco at $25 per ton, molasses, pulu, &c. The guano ex Josefa Allyon, reported by us as to be shipped by her, is to be stored and shipped direct from here.
